The speaker, while addressing his hearers in the most courteous manner and frequently evoking their appiause, laid indirectly at the door of the United States itself the responsibility for the boyoutt recently instituted in China against American goods.

He asserted that the numerous cases of hardship and unjust treatment which had been imposed by over-gealous American officials upon Chinese of the exempt classes had so worked upon feelings of the Chinese nation that the regrettable boyout had followed.

Sir Chentung was heard with the greatest interest by the large number of busihad followed.

It is evident that the object of the American Government was to secure, and the consent of the Chinese Government was given to, the prohibition of the Chinese laborers only, and no other class.

Duting more than a score of years of restriction and prohibition abuses have sprung up on both sides. Prior to the President's order of last June these abuses had so stirred up the feeling of the Chinese people that the boy-cett against the American goods was the regrettable consequence.

In compliance with the wishes of the American Government, the Chinese Government has based an imperial decree warning the people to respect every treaty situation under penalty of severe punishment and urging them to suppress the boycott rending action of Concrets to relieve the situation, and the provincial authorities have issued similar proclammations. vinctal authorities have issued similar proclamations.

The Chinese Government, while viewing with concern the exclusion of Chinese laborers under undue discrimitation, is, nevertheless, not unwilling to take into consideration the condition of things alleged to exist in this country. But, aside from the laboring class, all other classes should be admitted, and should receive the same treatment as is accorded to similar classes of Europeans entering this "land of freedom." As the laws and the immigration regulations stand to-day, aside from the five classes named in the emired treaty of 1994 estadents, merchants, teachers, travellers and officials, the following classes of Chinese cannot enter the United States; bankers, lawyers, journalists, priests and the dergy, physicians, dent six insurance agents. Nothing was farther than this from the thought of the original negolators. than this from the thought of the original negoliators.

In fact, the laws on the subject arem to be in such a state of hopeless confusion that different Attorneys General have rendered conflicting opinions as to the meaning of certain vital requirements, with 'he result that the resula tions, which should be intended merely to carry into effect the provisions of the laws, impose conditions additional to the laws and unwarranted requirements, which have the force of ligal enactments.

In consequence, Chinese subjects have been made to suffer great hardships in their attempt to land in the United States, and after being almitted, they have been incessantly harassed
by immigration agents.

MUST DIAL WITH OUESTION

MUST DEAL WITH QUESTION. MUST DEAL WITH QUESTION.

Any new settlement of the exclusion question, therefore. In order to satisfy the Chinese Government, and to be in accord with the dignity and sends of justice of this great American Resolution must have regard to the un attifactory manner in which the laws and regulations relating to Chinese immigration, made in purchance of treaty stipulations, have been administered, and should correct the abuses that have gradually strong up, which the present state of affairs makes intolerable.

ASKS ONLY FAIR PLAY. ARKS ONLY FAIR PLAY.
What China asks is only fair play and due consideration, and she can well rely in the just of the American respic and on the wisdom of their humakers, builded by their fileatricus President, who is the champion of searce of humanity of just dealing, to bring this important question to a successful self-ent, and transport the only stricts obstate to the freer development of our commercial relations.

The raids were decided upon early in the day, and it was planned to visit the establishments of Dectors Butler. Emmons, Williams. Ames and Bishop. The three last named are women obystiams.

Twenty officers received their instructions at solice station No. 41, and accompanied by theotographers and police surgeons, they were gent away in squads of four shortly before 2 o'clock. The officers timed their arrival, so that each officer would be entered at exactly the same time, thereby preventing any warning is, ing telephoned from one place to another.

MASK FOR OPERATOR.

An offleer found additional evidence of the extreme care taken to conceal the identity of the operator. He found a large mask, having long back hair, which covered the face from the top of the head to the neck. Black pieces of veiling were used to hide the eyes.

While the raids were in progress, Captain Dugan, accompanied by Iola Reed and Deputs Sheriff Authorn of Sandford, Me. visited several offices in an effort to have the girl identify the place where she went to submit to an operation. When she was taken into the Bishop offices, the young eril unbestatingly stated that it was there that she was treated.

She could not describe the location of the house where she was taken after the operation, and the police have practically abandoned hope of finding it.
